Restaurants, “Bacari”, Bars & Pâtisseries

Restaurants: also known in Italian as Osterie, these restaurants welcome the visitors into different ambiances, ranging from a familiar and intimate environment to a more vernacular, lived and enthusiastic one. It is here that is possible to taste some of the typical Venetian dishes, drinking good wine while sitting in a warm and characteristic environment, sometimes accompanied by good live music.

BACARI: The “Bacaro” is a typical Venetian Bar in which is possible to have a nice Happy Hour drinking “Ombra” (a small glass of white/red wine) and eat “Cicchetti” (that could be meatballs, crostini, Baccala’ Mantecato, everything), and spend nice time before dinner. Many restaurants from the previous section act also as Bacari, most of them, and we warmly recommend you to try the “Bacaro”’s experience at least once during your séjour. Among the places we did mention before, we find:

- Alla Vedova

Osteria La Bottega Ai Promessi Sposi

Al Timon

Al Remer

Osteria Al Portego

Ae Do Spade

Osteria Ruga Rialto

Bars. Venice, as every other city, is full of bars. However, we recommend some areas in which is possible to find nice places depending on everyone's specific needs. The area around Ca' Foscari, and especially Campo Santa Margherita, is greatly frequented by students, especially during the so called "Happy Hour". Some of the first bars listed here are located in that Campo.

However, if you want to experiment a more Venetian atmosphere, you could find the right place around the Rialto bridge, in Erbaria. Just down the Rialto bridge, that area is full of nice bars and bacari where many Venetians go after work. Another very nice spot is in Fondamenta della Misericordia, where also some of the restaurants we reported are located: that area is very famous for its bars and its quiet environment, far from the usual bustle of Venice. Most of them are already reported among the Bacari, so we trust you will consult also that list, but here is are indicated other possible choices. Enjoy!
